Teacher Preparation Program

Orientation Update

NEW Orientation Course starting fall 2023!

Education fieldwork students now take EDUC 250 or EDUC 650, Teacher Preparation Orientation class to register for their EDUC 10, EDUC 20 or EDUC 130 classes and to be placed in a local public school for fieldwork hours. (This new process replaces former orientation workshops that were held in past semesters.)

For those students who later take an additional EDUC fieldwork course, our program will contact you directly to renew your clearances as needed. You will not need to take the Orientation class more than once.

More information is available online at <https://www.lbcc.edu/pod/education-course-orientation-teaching-pathway>

Scholarship Workshop Part 1 – October 5th at 1 PM in M-322 and Zoom

Join the Future Teachers Club as we spend time discussing and beginning to craft our Long Beach City College scholarship application. Get a sense of what information you'll need and how to manage the questions and prompts. Finally, we will begin drafting the scholarship essay.

Scholarship Workshop Part 2 – October 19th at 1 PM in M-322 and Zoom

Join the Future Teachers Club as we continue working on our scholarship essays. Get assistance with peer review and building confidence. Spend time editing and revising as you prepare to submit.

Mindful Time Management for Future Teachers – November 11 at 1 Pm in M-322 and Zoom

Join the Future Teachers Club as we walk through adjusting to the shifts and responsibilities in our life. Using holistic approaches, we will prepare for scheduling time for studying, fieldwork, work and most importantly, rest. We will also discuss accommodations and application to classroom teaching (virtual and in person).
