ADMINISTRATIVE REGULATIONS
ON INSTITUTIONAL CODE OF ETHICS

3008.1 The Vice President of Human Resources or designee is responsible for implementing this regulation.

3008.2 Definition and Standards of Ethics: Ethical behavior is often defined as “right” or “good” behavior as measured against commonly accepted rules of conduct for a society or for a profession. The ethical person is often described as one who is fair, honest, straightforward, trustworthy, objective, unprejudiced, and equitable. The consistent exercise of integrity is the cornerstone of ethical behavior.

3008.3 Importance of Ethics

- A. The credibility of the District’s employees depends upon whether they are perceived as honest men and women. If integrity contributes to credibility, then ethical behavior is a singular prerequisite to successful performance of one’s duties.
- B. Statements of ethical standards do not necessarily ensure ethical behavior. Yet, public statements of intent surely create an expectation that employees will indeed act with integrity in the public interest.
- C. Although the District’s guiding principles cannot address every issue or provide answers to every dilemma, they define the spirit in which we intend to conduct business and should guide us in our daily conduct.

3008.4 Compliance with Laws

Commitment to ethical behavior begins with complying with laws, rules and regulations. Each employee must have an understanding of the policies, laws, rules and regulations that apply to his or her specific role, including, financial conflict of interest laws under the Political Reform Act. If we are unsure of whether a contemplated action is permitted by law or District policy, we should seek the advice from the resource expert. We are responsible for preventing violations of law and for reporting violations of laws to our supervisors.

3008.5 District employees shall adhere to the following ethical standards:

- A. Exercise due diligence in the ethical performance of his or her duties and model the highest standard of ethically responsible behavior.
