The 'X' pushes us to think about the different ways race, gender, sexuality and geographic location can impact how we and others understand Latina, Latino or Latinx experiences.

– Dr. Rigoberto Marquez, 2019

¡SALUDOS!

On behalf of Long Beach City College, it is my great pleasure to welcome you, our Latinx students, to our college community. We have been serving students for more than 90 years, so whether you are looking to transfer to a university, earn a degree or a certificate, LBCC will help prepare you for success in your educational, career and life goals.

With more than half of our students identifying as Hispanic, Chicano/Chicana or Latinx, we are proud to be a Hispanic Serving Institution, a designation given to colleges with a large population of Latinx students. More recently, the College also received the Seal of Excelencia which is a national certification awarded to colleges that have made it their mission to support, promote, and accelerate Latinx student success in higher education. LBCC is proud to be the first California Community College to receive this important designation.

In light of everything going on in our country and across the globe, our college is committed to being antiracist. Furthermore, we stand in solidarity with the Black Lives Matter movement and recognize the importance of our role in coalition building across racial groups as we celebrate the 50th anniversary of the Chicano Moratorium.

With that in mind, this resource guide is one of the many ways we are committed to ensuring that our community is responsive to your needs. Through this Latinx Resource Guide, we hope to assist you in your journey through LBCC. You will find a variety of LBCC Student Services, tips to achieve academic success, information on transfer, off-campus resources and much more. More importantly, there are several resources specifically focused on serving our Latinx student community.

Our goal is to prepare students to assume their roles as culturally empowered and contributing members of the student body population here at Long Beach City College and the greater community. Together, we hope to create a thriving, equitable and inclusive campus community for all. We aim to make substantial progress toward closing education, culture and identity gaps, and provide a welcoming campus environment for all our students.

We are proud that you have selected Long Beach City College as part of your educational path and we hope that this Resource Guide will assist you on your journey to success.

¡Sí Se Puede!

Who is your Latina/Chicana-o/Hispanic/etc. role model?
My beautiful Native-Chicana/o parents, my strong and firme older brother, the entire Chicano and American Indian Movement, Gloria Anzaldúa, Dolores Huerta, Subcomandante Marcos and Ramona, and all the carnalas/carnales of South East Los Angeles.

What makes you proud to be Latina/Chicana-o/Hispanic?
I am proud to be able to identify as Native and Mexican American. I learned at a young age, my Native and Mexican identities are one in the same. There is a sense of pride to remind folks, my family's origin started way before borders and treaties. Instead, it began as one people. My lineage is bound to ancient civilizations who created the concept of zero and created maps of the galaxies. Even though our stories and legends were burned and forced to disappear, the spirit of all the warriors and great councils is still apart of me.

How do you identify yourself?
Mexicana, Latina

If there were one thing being Latinx/Chicana-o/Hispanic/etc. has taught you, what would it be?
Being Latina has taught me to embrace the beauty of my culture. To have pride in the traditions, customs, and cultural elements that inform the very essence of my identity. My culture has also taught me to appreciate the beauty of other peoples’ cultures.

What advice would you have for your 20-year-old self about your identity?
It evolves...and it’s okay. You get to define who you are and how you express your cultural/ethnic identity. Others don’t get to define that for you.

How do you identify yourself?
Latino; Latino, Chicano

What makes you proud to be Latino/Chicana-o/Hispanic?
I am proud of the richness and legacy of the Latinx community. I am also proud of the struggles and sacrifices made by so many Latinx peoples in pursuit of a better life for themselves and their families.

What is your biggest passion?
My biggest passion is social justice and working for communities who have been marginalized.

How do you identify yourself?
Latino

How has LBCC shaped your Latinx/Chicana-o/Hispanic/etc. identity?
I’m much more in touch with my heritage now than before I came to work at LBCC. I was usually the only person of color at all of my previous jobs.

How do you celebrate your heritage?
I celebrate my heritage every time I cook the Guatemalan dishes that I learned from my mother.

Who is your Latinx/Chicana-o/Hispanic/etc. role model?
Jorge Ramos (journalist) sets the standard for credibility and moral strength. Che Guevara and Emiliano Zapata stood up for the most vulnerable in their societies. And finally, Carlos Fuentes and Gabriel Garcia Marquez who wrote of the Latina/o experience and the exploitation of Latina America by external powers.

How do you identify yourself?
Chicana

What makes you proud to be Latinx/Chicana-o/Hispanic?
I was raised in Inglewood and we came from a very humbling background. As a Chicana, I am proud to have worked at a very young age because it taught me the value of money and hard work. My parents and I used to sell leather belts in the swap meet, and even though I was embarrassed at the time, I am truly grateful for those early mornings on the weekends.

How do you celebrate your heritage?
Every day is a celebration, most times without noticing. I speak Spanish daily, I visit my parents twice a week, I listen to Rock en Español, I call my mom daily, I wear my dangling earrings and bright colored tops - and I do it all without any shame/fear, something others may not have the privilege of doing. I honor my heritage not only for myself and my family but also for my community.

How do you identify yourself?
Latina

Who is your Latinx/Chicana-o/Hispanic/etc. role model?
My Latinx role model is human rights activist and Nobel Peace Prize recipient, Rigoberta Menchú.

How do you celebrate your heritage?
I celebrate my heritage by sharing and listening to music that my grandparents, aunts, uncles and parents enjoyed dancing to, and eating traditional Guatemalan food. Also, by sharing cuentos (story or tales) told to me by different generations within my family.

Vice President

Vivian Malauulu

Board of Trustees President, 2019-20
Long Beach Community College District

“I am very proud of my Latino heritage, but I am most proud of my Honduran background, specifically. My poor little country gets so much negative publicity - and that motivates me to change the perception that others have of Hondurans. If I am the only Catracha that you ever meet - I want you to perceive Hondurans as Hard-working, Honest, and Humble. The ‘H’ means so many things to me, but today it means HAPPY!” – Board President Vivian Malauulu

Vivian Malauulu is the first Latina elected to the Long Beach Community College District Board of Trustees to represent Area 2.

President Malauulu has more than 20 years of experience teaching a variety of high school subjects. She has a bachelor’s in Journalism from CSU Northridge, a master’s in Educational Administration from CSU Dominguez Hills, and four K-14 bilingual teaching credentials. President Malauulu taught Journalism part-time at LBCC prior to her election. She is a full-time registered longshore worker. She regularly contributes to various media outlets as a bilingual freelance journalist.

She was born Vivian Ramirez in an impoverished barrio of San Pedro Sula, Honduras to a young, unwed mother. They migrated to California in 1981 pursuing what all immigrants want from America – the chance of a better life. President Malauulu was seven years old and spoke zero English.

In spite of working full-time in the longshore industry, serving at LBCC, and raising a very busy family, President Malauulu continues to be involved in the community. She credits her strong faith in God, her passion for education, and her tough work ethic for guiding her on the road to public service.

How do you identify yourself?
Latina, Mexican-American

How has LBCC shaped your Latinx/Chicana-o/Hispanic/etc. identity?
Being one of the few Latina faculty since I began 29 years ago has meant that I have had to be an advocate for my students and colleagues. I never forget where I came from and know that I have been blessed to be where I am today.

What advice would you have for your 20-year-old self about your identity?
I would tell my 20-year-old self to be orgullosa (proud) of where she comes from. And, work hard so that your parents’ hardships and struggles will have been worth it.
